

BELINDA TRY - DIRECTOR

APAISER

Apaiser is an Australian-owned, internal designer and manufacturer specialising in luxury stone composite bathware. All designs are focussed on the vision of its founding Director, Belinda Try, and her personal design belief that the use of the unique apaiser stone could transform the bathing experience to one that balances both function and ritual.

With a focus on the luxurious properties of marble, the functional and artistic material, apaiser stone, has been developed allowing the Apaiser design team an unprecedented freedom of expression and design. The soft and organic feel of apaiser is also enhanced with its ability to be moulded and formed into unique shapes. The result is a timeless range of luxurious stone composite baths, basins and vanities which will delight the most discerning homeowner, with its natural, fluid and minimal form.

Through the extensive Apaiser range Belinda has sought to create a unique offering within the bathware realm, developing a brand which symbolises luxury and embraces the evolution of bathrooms as they move from simply functional spaces to retreats which also indulge and sooth the senses.
