Date 17 November 2013

Publication Sunday Mail Adelaide - Home

Circulation 246,007

Page 20

DECORATE

Add a touch of luxury to your home, follow the bath to enlightenment.

ANNA VLACH

ack in the early 1990s BUS trend forecaster Faith Popcorn told us we would all soon be "cocooning" — spending our money on styling our homes rather than socialising.

All because we wanted to spend more time at home with friends, family and our nearest and dearest. And enjoy more me time. If you are among the many of us who would rather relax in the bath than go out on the tiles, chances are vour ensuite has become a sort of sanctuary. Your place in which to cocoon.

And if your ensuite doesn't look like a private luxury retreat, you are, no doubt, dreaming of renovating and redecorating it.

In the meantime you are probably making sure it has touches of chic tranquillity. You most likely decorate your ensuite with (and use) sustainable bath and shower products like those in the plant-based Aesop range, which look great in any bathroom and give you a sense of well-being.

Because having an environmentally-conscious home is important to you. Should you want to take your eco-sensitive ensuite to the next level with a makeover Apaiser's new NEST collection will appeal to your senses and sensibilities.

Designed in Melbourne, the luxury stone bathware is manufactured from reclaimed sustainable ingredientscrushed marble - and has the highest level of natural stone content in the market. Handcrafted by artisans, the collection includes a bath. counter top and freestanding basins.

Their form is inspired by a bird's nest - which gives the bath, in particular, an organic shape for an enveloping bathing experience.

The option of external etchingintertwined twigs or the pattern of your choice — will also enhance your back-to-nature bathroom. NEST by Apaiser can be customised to any pattern or design, with or without the twig etching. NEST bath: from $7995; NEST freestanding basin from $2395; NEST counter top basin; from $995.

